

“5 Essex Court’s barristers are at the cutting edge of everything”

Chambers UK

Top-tier civil law set of chambers recognised for our exemplary client service, depth and breadth of experience in our specialist areas and the outstanding quality of our counsel

5 Essex Court
Temple, London
EC4Y 9AH

T: 020 7410 2000
E: clerks@5essexcourt.co.uk
W: 5essexcourt.co.uk

Andrew Waters
Call: 1987

Andrew is recognised as a leading junior in both police and disciplinary law in the major legal directories, being described as “pre-eminent” in his fields of expertise.

Clients commend Andrew’s approach to his work which “instils you with the confidence that you have the right person” (Chambers UK).

Andrew has a considerable depth of experience of representing and advising police forces in England and Wales across the whole range of civil and public law issues that affect them.

He has acted in high profile, complex and sensitive cases ranging from the Bichard Inquiry into child protection issues, following the conviction of Ian Huntley for the Soham murders, to the Hillsborough Inquests.

Andrew regularly provides lectures and training to police forces, individual force solicitors and the Association of Police Lawyers.

Recommendations

"Good at getting to grips with key issues at short notice and is well liked by clients." (Police Law)
Chambers UK 2020

"He is tenacious yet balanced; clients like him" (Police Law)
Legal 500 2020

"Very popular with clients and witnesses and very easy to work with." (Police Law)
Chambers UK 2019

"A go-to junior. Clients and witnesses really get on with him because he is down to earth and clear in communication." (Police Law)
Chambers UK 2019

‘Very good with clients and witnesses, he is excellent at getting to the core of the issues.’ (Police Law - Defendant)
Legal 500 2019

"He is approachable and well-liked by both clients and witnesses." (Police Law)
Chambers UK 2018

"He is exceptional on all areas of police work." (Police Law)
Chambers UK 2018

“Pre-eminent for police conduct and discipline cases.” (Police Law)
Chambers UK 2017

“His laid-back, calm approach instils you with the confidence that you have the right person.” (Police Law)
Chambers UK 2017

“He is liked by clients and witnesses alike.” (Police Law)
Chambers UK 2017

“An expert in police law.” (Civil liberties and human rights, including actions against the police)
The Legal 500 UK 2015

“He identifies the strengths and weaknesses of a case and presents it in a streamlined way that is palatable for the panel.” (Police Law)
Chambers UK 2015

“Clients love him and are naturally put at ease by him. He’s very good at talking to people on their level and listening to them, which is incredibly important. He’s a co-operative team player.” (Police Law)
Chambers UK 2014

Police Law

Andrew’s extensive Police Law experience covers the whole range of civil and public law issues that affect police forces including:

Civil actions – Civil actions for false imprisonment, assault, malicious prosecution, misfeasance in a public office, HRA claims and negligence.

Discipline – Described as “Pre-eminent for police conduct and discipline case”, he covers a wide range of disciplinary work, both advisory and as an advocate.

Inquests – Andrew has extensive experience of inquests where the police have had some form of contact or dealing with the police.

Judicial review – Andrew regularly appears in the Administrative Court on behalf of the police forces on issues ranging from search warrants, police discipline, claims involving human rights, and public protection.

Cases of note include:

Hillsborough Inquests - Andrew represented Sheffield Wednesday Football Club throughout what is now the longest inquest in English legal history. Following on from the inquests he is currently representing the then Club Safety Officer in current criminal proceedings.

Death of Ian Tomlinson - the discipline proceedings against PC Simon Harwood for the death of newspaper vendor Ian Tomlinson.

Hussain v West Mercia Constabulary – Court of Appeal – requirement of recognisable psychiatric damage (rather than anxiety resulting in physical symptoms) in a claim for misfeasance in a public office.

Morrison v Commissioner of Police of the Metropolis - whether the use by the police of a Taser amounted to a breach of Article 3 of the ECHR and required an independent investigation by the Independent Police Complaints

Commission rather than by the Metropolitan Police Department of Professional Standards.

Guardian Newspapers v Information Commissioner – unsuccessful attempt by the Guardian Newspaper to obtain from Avon & Somerset Constabulary the investigation report in respect of the allegation that the former Liberal Leader Jeremy Thorpe had been involved in a conspiracy to murder.

Bichard Inquiry – represented Cambridgeshire Constabulary at the inquiry into the child protection procedures (in particular intelligence keeping and vetting) following the conviction of Ian Huntley for the murders of Jessica Chapman and Holly Wells.

Cowan v Chief Constable of Somerset & Avon Court of Appeal - liability of police forces for negligence post Osman.

O'Sullivan v Commissioner of Police of the Metropolis – public interest immunity attaches to reports from police to the Crown Prosecution Service.

Public / Administrative

Andrew regularly appears in the Administrative Court on behalf of the police forces on a wide range of issues including search warrants, disclosure of information, police discipline, claims involving human rights, and public protection.

Cases of note include:

Morrison v Commissioner of Police of the Metropolis – whether the use by the police of a Taser amounted to a breach of Article 3 of the ECHR and required an independent investigation by the Independent Police Complaints Authority rather than by the Metropolitan Police Department of Professional Standards.

Bates v Chief Constable of Avon & Somerset – legality of search warrants especially where privileged material is sought.

Inquests

Andrew has considerable experience of inquests both on behalf of police forces and the Home Office.

His inquest work has covered a wide variety of issues including missing persons, psychiatric patients, police pursuits and deaths in custody to name but a few.

Andrew represented Sheffield Wednesday Football Club in the recent Hillsborough Inquests. He was involved throughout the two years of the inquests - now the longest inquests in English legal history, Following on from the inquests he is now representing the then Club Safety Officer in current criminal proceedings.

Regulatory

Andrew is described as “Pre-eminent for police conduct and discipline cases” (Chambers UK). He has a considerable depth of experience both in terms of advisory work and as an advocate. He also regularly provides lectures and training to police forces and police lawyers on this area of law.

Cases of note include the discipline proceedings against PC Simon Harwood for the death of Ian Tomlinson, a newspaper vendor, during the G20 protests in London.

Andrew has experience of dealing with Health and Safety issues both in a policing and non-policing context. He has dealt with high profile and complex cases, including representing Sheffield Wednesday Football Club following the Hillsborough disaster.

Andrew also has considerable experience in other disciplinary fields including work for the Nursing and Midwifery Council and the Bar Council.

Human Rights

Andrew has advised police forces on the whole range of ECHR / HRA issues that can arise in police cases, from Article 2 right to life claims to Article 8 right to private life cases.

Cases of note include:

Morrison v Commissioner of Police of the Metropolis - whether the use by the police of a Taser amounted to a breach of Article 3 of the ECHR and required an independent investigation by the Independent Police Complaints Commission rather than by the Metropolitan Police Department of Professional Standards.

Gowing v British Transport Police – High Court claim for £7,000,000 alleged to have arisen from a search of the claimant's business and subsequent prosecution, where the HRA was relied on as one of the heads of claim.

Information Law

Andrew has advised and appeared on behalf of police forces across a wide spectrum of issues. These have included FOI requests for disclosure for information from police forces, the use / misuse of information held by the police and issues of retention.

Cases of note include:

Representing Avon & Somerset police in a FOI claim by the Guardian Newspaper to obtain the investigation report into the alleged conspiracy to murder by the ex-Liberal Party leader, Jeremy Thorpe

Advising police forces at a national level on issues arising out of the alleged manipulation of forensic samples by employees of Randox Testing Services.

Public Inquiries

Andrew represented Cambridgeshire Constabulary at the Richard Inquiry into child protection procedures (in particular intelligence keeping and vetting) following the conviction of Ian Huntley for the murders of Jessica Chapman and Holly Wells – the Soham Murders.