Catriona Hodge

Call: 2012

Catriona specialises in police and public law, inquests, employment, human rights and information law. She is regularly instructed by police forces to act in civil claims, inquests and judicial review proceedings. Catriona has experience working for government departments and has acted for individuals, corporations and local authorities in employment, immigration and personal injury claims.

Recent examples of her work include Gatland & Others v Independent Police Complaints Commission (claims for breach of Articles 6 and 8 and Article 1 of the First Protocol of the European Convention), Rees & Others v Commissioner of Police of the Metropolis (claims for malicious prosecution and misfeasance), Ipswich Town Football Club Company Ltd v The Chief Constable of Suffolk Constabulary (a claim for repayment of money relating to the provision of special police services at football matches).

Catriona is appointed to the Attorney General's C Panel of Counsel.

Catriona is happy to provide lectures and training relating to developments in her practice areas.

Police Law

Catriona is regularly instructed to act for police forces in claims for malicious prosecution, false imprisonment, assault, trespass, negligence, defamation and breaches of the Human Rights Act 1998. She has experience of acting in claims for discrimination under the Equality Act 2010 and for breaches of the Data Protection Act. As junior counsel, she has been instructed in claims for misfeasance, for the repayment of money relating to the provision of special police services and for the quashing of a search warrant.

Catriona has considerable advocacy experience appearing frequently in the High Court and County Courts. She is adept at witness handling having acted in a lengthy civil jury trial and a complex fact-finding hearing in care proceedings. Catriona is regularly instructed in family proceedings to make sensitive ex parte and inter partes applications to withhold disclosure of evidence on grounds of public interest immunity.

Significant Cases:

Gatland and others v Independent Police Complaints Commission (High Court, ongoing) – claims for breach of Articles 6 and 8 and Article 1 of the First Protocol of the European Convention arising from three independent investigations into allegations of police misconduct (led by Jason Beer QC).

Commissioner of Police for the Metropolis v Jamie Thorpe [2015] EWHC 3339 (Admin) – an appeal brought by way of case stated against a decision of the Ealing Magistrates' Court to impose restrictions on a football banning order.

R (on the application of Craig Paolo) v City of London Magistrates' Court & Commissioner of Police for the City of London [2014] EWHC 2011 (Admin) – an application for an order quashing a search warrant on grounds of material non-disclosure.

Inquests

Catriona has acted in a number of sensitive and lengthy inquests involving allegations of failings on the part of state agents. She has experience of cases concerning homicide, police pursuits and deaths (including suicides) following police custody and other contact with the police such as 999 calls. Several of her cases have involved a complex history of mental illness including detention in mental health institutions and contact with community mental health teams.

Catriona has represented police forces, family members and a healthcare professional. She has been instructed to handle applications for witness anonymity, public interest immunity and judicial review claims challenging the verdict of inquests. She regularly advises on case preparation, witness handling and disclosure.

Significant Cases:

Inquest into the death of Craig Sanders [2019] – Instructed to act in an Article 2 inquest, before a jury, into the death of a psychiatric patient during a period of escorted leave from hospital.

Inquest into the death of Michael Dowling [2016] – Acted for a police force in an inquest into the death of a man who committed suicide during the execution of an arrest warrant.

Inquest into the death of Shawn Browne [2015] – acting on behalf of West Midlands Police in an Article 2 inquest, before a jury, into the death of a suspect during a police pursuit.

of material non-disclosure.

Human Rights

Catriona's practice encompasses a broad range of human rights issues. She has experience of cases involving investigative failings, allegations of torture, inhuman or degrading treatment, breach of privacy, infringement of the right to freedom of assembly and discrimination. She has acted on behalf of unaccompanied asylum-seeking children and has dealt with cases involving victims of modern slavery.

Before calling to the bar, Catriona worked as an assistant in the Human Rights Department of Leigh Day. The cases in which she was involved included the independent inquiry into Mid Staffordshire NHS Foundation Trust, an application to the ECtHR challenging the decision of a local authority to take a baby into care and a licensing appeal challenging a local authority's failure to comply with its race equality duties.

Significant Cases:

Gatland and others v Independent Police Complaints Commission (High Court, ongoing) – claims for breach of Articles 6 and 8 and Article 1 of the First Protocol of the European Convention arising from three independent investigations into allegations of police misconduct (led by Jason Beer QC).

Employment

Catriona has experience representing individuals, public bodies and private organisations in claims for unfair dismissal, discrimination and whistleblowing. She was instructed as junior counsel to review a significant volume of disclosure and prepare witness evidence in a large-scale and complex claim of whistleblowing against the Secretary of State for Health.

Catriona's recent work has included conducting a 7-day trial of claims for disability, sex and race discrimination, obtaining substantial damages for a client in a claim for whistleblowing, acting for a claimant in a claim for unfair dismissal following a business restructuring which resulted in redundancy and handing a complex claim for discrimination against a qualifications body pursuant to s53 of the Equality Act 2010.

Data Protection & Information Law

Catriona has experience of cases concerning misuse of private information, breach of confidence and breaches of Article 8 ECHR. She has been instructed in claims for compensation and judicial review proceedings for breaches of the Data Protection Act. Catriona is regularly instructed to handle applications for public interest immunity and for disclosure of information between related sets of proceedings. Her advisory work has covered issues arising under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 and the Regulation of Investigatory Powers Act 2000.

Personal Injury

Catriona is regularly instructed to act in cases involving Occupiers' Liability, Defective Premises, Highway Maintenance and Health and Safety at Work.

Catriona has conducted fast-track trials and settlement negotiations and has considerable experience of pleading and advisory work.
